Our Favorite Valentine's Day Deals (and Splurges) of 2017

Valentine's Day deals are usually bundles of clichés (roses! champagne!) or less-than-clever ways to repackage a spa night. But not these seven—we would splurge on a Parisian dinner-and-a-movie or a personalized Moroccan excursion. Even if you can't celebrate on February 14—it is a school night, after all—several of these packages are available after the holiday; use them as inspiration for a long weekend (or impromptu vacation) with your better half.

A Moonlit Meal at Mahékal Beach Resort in Mexico

We never thought we'd head down to Mexico just to catch a full moon—but this year's "Moon Over Mahékal" offering from Mahékal Beach Resort is pretty damn tempting. The package at the Playa del Carmen retreat, rated one of the 30 best resorts on Mexico's east coast in this year's Readers' Choice Awards includes a night's stay at an Ocean View room and a romantic multi-course dinner on an empty stretch of beach, lit by tiki torches, candles, and, of course, the full moon. (Other perks include a 130-minute couples' massage and aromatherapy treatment, a snorkeling trip, a private terrace and hammock, and a tropical fruit basket on arrival.) Originally, the offer was only available through the end of February, since it was meant to coincide with the full moon on February 10—but the hotel has since extended it until the end of 2017 so that you can get your celestial kicks from meteor showers, full moon risings, and solar eclipses all year long.
